The victory will be in the running for the championship of independent football in Western Pennsylvania.

The game received a blow yesterday afternoon when John Moore, guard and a valuable man on the team, was taken with appendicitis late in the improved but will hardly be able to make his place in the lineup. Big Mike Spegar who me with an accident at his work last week when part of his finger was amputated was also among the missing.

Brownsville is reported to have had an exceptionally strong man in the backfield. Reports are that the players can drop kick a goal from 100 yards and score a field goal from 50 yards with accuracy. On the other hand the other has returned to the Tornado lineup and is considered one of the most consistent and sound players in the backfield. It was considered certain that the backfield would consist of Alberto, a center, Durano and Lascelles at half backs with White at full.

The names of the officials were not to be made known until a few minutes before the start of the game. They were selected from Central Boardman by the sporting editor of the Pittsburgh Post.

The Tornados were prepared to go into the game in short socks and plenty of material for wiping mud from their hands and faces. It is believed that the game will be played at 12 noon.

The experiment has been highly successful according to a policy of no fines in instances where a car was driven while drunk or where a driver failed to give aid having left down the road. The roads must be more safe.

Another argument submitted is that road has been fixed in public mind as a danger signal.

SATURDAY EVENING, NOV. 26, 1921.

TWO IMPORTANT BILLS MADE LAWS.

Two important measures, the final passage of which was long deferred by obstructive tactics in Congress, chiefly in the Senate, have become laws by the approval of President Harding.

The signing of the first of these measures, popularly known as the anti-beer bill, automatically closes the gap in the national prohibition law created last March when Attorney General Palmer, as almost his last official act, announced the opinion that there was nothing in the Volstead Act to prevent members of the medical profession issuing prescriptions for beer as medicine.

The publication of this opinion, which in prohibition circles has always been regarded as a much strained construction of the Volstead Act, served the purpose of uniting the prohibition advocates in Congress to frame the bill which by the President's signature has annulled the ruling of Attorney General Palmer. It also has the same effect on the regulations promulgated by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon a few weeks ago, under which prescriptions for beer as medicine, and permits for its manufacture, were made possible.

The delay in the final passage of the bill resulted from the determined fight made by the anti-prohibitionists in the Senate who employed all the devices known in parliamentary procedure to "delay action." Their tactics availed nothing other than to defer the time of taking the last vote which was overwhelmingly in favor of the bill to which President Harding promptly attached his signature.

In addition to outlawing so-called "medical" beer the new law provides that not more than one-fourth gallon of vinous liquor, or vinous or spirituous liquors separately, or in the aggregate containing more than one-half pint of alcohol may be prescribed in ten days; that physicians shall be limited to 100 prescriptions for such liquors in ninety days unless extraordinary reason is presented; that importation of spirituous or vinous liquor is prohibited until the amount on hand shall not be sufficient to supply legitimate medical needs.

The second of the measures receiving approval of the President was the tax revision bill. This bill repeals the excess profits and transportation taxes, does away with most of the so-called nuisance and luxury taxes, reduces individual taxes all along the line and increases the corporation income tax from 10 per cent to 12½ per cent.

The act is by no means all that was desired in the matter of reducing or equalizing federal taxation but it was about the best that could be framed in face of the efforts made to incorporate features that would have made it still more of a patchwork. Its passage was unduly delayed through lack of cooperation in Congress with a view to solving the intricate problems involved. The measure is generally conceded to be only temporary but it serves the purpose of settling the tax revision question for a year or two and to that extent enables business and industry to go ahead with plans that were being held in abeyance until the revision of taxes had been assured.

Mr. Wilson Passes

Harrisburg Telegraph.

The crowds thronging the streets of Washington as the Armistice Day procession passed on its way to Arlington gave to former President Woodrow Wilson a hearty greeting. In his bent frame and wasted features, the spectators saw only the invalid figure of one who had wrought mightily during an eventful period, who had striven conscientiously (even though mistakenly) for the attainment of a great object, and had broken under the strain.

They saw in him the former commander-in-chief of the Army, as much & sacrifice to the ruthlessness of the war as though dissolved on the field of battle, and their hearts went out to him as man to man in the hour of his suffering.

Woodrow Wilson is no longer a political figure. "Wilsonism" is no longer a political issue and the people, who cheered as he passed honored themselves quite as much as they honored the former President.

What the Legion Does

Philadelphia Ledger.

While the A. E. F. was in France the people at home were laying large plans for the 2,000,000 men when they came back.

When the boys came home there was disappointment on both sides. The soldiers had been given to believe that beyond an uproarious welcome and a parade, grateful country would bestir itself to find a living wage for each of "the nation's defenders." They had been led to expect that gratitude would immediately seek some practical manifestation.

Instead, they came home to find the stay-at-home citizens chiefly bent on resuming business as usual. They found their jobs in some cases filled by employers who refused to evict those who filled them. Disappointment often has turned to outright despair, as door after hopeful door of industrial opportunity refused to open.

The Americans who awaited the home-coming of the warriors have also been disillusioned at times to discover that the men who returned had not become saints or sorrows in a year and a half. They expected superhuman attributes that did not materialize. They expected apparently members of the A. E. F. demobilized, to acquiesce in social and industrial and especially political insignificance, if not in utter extinction of individuality. So it has been popular with at least a portion of our citizens to assume that the American Legion has spent its time "heaving" about the boats; whereas that agitation, though it has been to the bone, is but one of the things the Legion has been doing; and it is useful to be reminded of some of the other things.

The men of the Legion have had an active and a rapidly increasing part in various works of Americanization. They have held night schools for adults.

They have assembled imperfectly domesticated aliens and explained to them what they owe America.

They have entertained and instructed the newly naturalized.

The G. A. R. does not exist for a pension; the American Legion is not living for a bonus. It is a gross lie to accuse the boys who fought so gallantly only for personal advantages today. They deserve the best we can do for them—and part of our duty to them is to be fair to the real spirit of the patriotic majority of the Legion.

WOOD-SHED DAYS.

We're done with wood-shed days. It seems. And yet you linger in my dreams. Those days of old when it was winter. That I must keep the coal stove lit and early quit my cosy bed to clear a path into the shed.

Then cheeks were red and hunger grow. As drifts of snow I struggled through And built a bank on either side To make a pathway two-feet wide. Two banks twixt which a boy could stand. A scuttle held in either hand.

At night before I went to bed, "Get in the coal," my father said. And through the fire I crawled. And had a load lighter, though lighter. The white heat washed beside the door Until my dangerous trip was over.

The kitchen window shone its light Across the snow drifts, glistening Yet once inside that little shack The scene was curiously black And frightful forms appeared to be lying in wait to strangle me.

I'd place the scuttle by the wood, Then try to guess just where it stood And when at last my feet were free To where the kitchen gaslight burned. I'd find before I reached the door I'd left the coal upon the floor.

These tasks are gone, the shed's no more. The like of cheery stoves is clear, though too has passed away. And yet with every winter's day Despite the ease of modern ways I'm grateful for those wood-shed days.

EXPERIENCE.

This much I know, a friend or two Can compensate for twenty foes. And summer with her skies of blue Makes up for every storm that blows. What though the failures but and And oft a man's days with dark disasters.

The bitter trouble buts will come Before the joy of our success.

Thus much I've learned, always to smile. Is not within the power of man. There shall be days when fogs revile And dull the mind's best-fated plan. And if those days come with best results In him and gladdish shade The days of trial and of test, He need not falter or despair.

Friends seldom travel with the throng. They're not the many who are true. The thoughtless are the little wrong.

And not the good man tries to do And whether he shall rise at evening's close That the staunch friend makes up for all.

The hate and anger of his foes.

STALE BLOOD
BLURS LIVING

Gude's Pepto-Mangan Revives the Blood to Healthy State.

Stale blood blurs living. It dulls the love for pleasure, and weakens the spirit. Thoughts sink into an unresumed dreariness that no goodness of the will can dispel. Where there was thrilling excitement, there is only an aching sensation of fatigue.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan takes regularly for a while puts a check to the debilitating effects of thin, watery blood. It supplies the blood with red corpuscles, steps it up to its normal, rich redness. Then it is that the pleasures of rhythmic living return. The shoulder glow of life warms and brightens so that the pleasant sensations of eating, sleeping, walking in the golden sunshine, breathing deep the health-giving air, again become thrilling and full of delight.

Druggists sell Gude's Pepto-Mangan in both liquid and tablet form.—Advertisement.

FIRST UNITED PRESBYTERIAN, 601 South Pittsburg street. Francis J. Scott, minister. Sunday school at 9:45; preaching, 11 and 7:45. Orchestra prelude at 7:30. At the morning worship hour the minister will preach the second sermon of the series on the general subject of "Investing in God's Program." The particular message will be based on "Self-Centered or God-Centered." There are two systems of life which tend to fix our characters. All the values of life hinge upon our choice, and in choosing we are limited to one or the other of these two systems. How do you reason? That determines your investment. Come and hear a vitalizing message. In the evening there will be an interesting discussion of "The Best Things." See Matthew 7:16. Here is furnished the rule by which the moral quality of things may be tested. Test these things by that standard, books, religion, school, press, drama, the best man.

Carter Confident of His Ability to Stop Johnny Donnelly Next Thursday

Great Crowd From Uniontown Will See Bout on West Side.

OTHER BOUTS POPULAR

In presenting Johnny Donnelly, formerly of Uniontown, and Billy Carter of this city, in the main attraction boxing bout of 10 rounds at Shiekh Hall next Thursday night, Matchmaker Duke Barry offers the followers of the game a contest that he has been working on for over a year. Barry, who is the manager of Connellsville's hope in this encounter, has contended ever since the time that Donnelly defeated his man last October, that his ebony hued battler would beat Donnelly should they ever clash again.

Since the boys met, both have improved greatly, Donnelly cleaning up all opposition in eastern rings and being pointed for a bout with Benny Leonard for the lightweight championship. Carter, however, is confident he will be at all times the master of the Newark, N. J., flesh. Not only is there a tense feeling of rivalry existing between these boys but it will also again bring to the fore the rivalry which has always existed between Connellsville and Uniontown.

"With two other bouts on the card that run the star contest a close second, in which Jackie Fromme, the popular flyweight of Pittsburgh, meets Mike Moran of Mount Washington, in an eight-round melee and Buck Krouse of Broad Ford meets Johnny King of Fayette City, the local club presents an attraction which has met with the full approval of the most critical fight fan who ever went to Slavish hall."

Eddie Kennedy, former welter-weight champion of the world, has been engaged to referee all the bouts. The advance sale of seat reservations is still going on at a merry pace. Tony Cuneo of the West Penn Billiard parlor, stated that as long as he had been selling tickets for the local club never has he handled such a heavy advance sale.

FOOTBALL CRITIC THINKS WELL OF TORNADO OUTFIT

A football fan who signs himself as J. W. T., formerly of Pitt, writes to the Pittsburgh Dispatch that the McKeerport Olympics and Bradley Eagles want to look out for the Connellsville Tornadoes. His comment in the Pittsburgh paper reads:

"I have played some football myself and I know what I am talking about, so here goes. I have seen Red Fleming at his best, played against such stars as Soppe of Pitt, Westbacher, Moser and Shields or W. & J., and numerous other well-known players. But what I want to say is that the Connellsville Tornado football team is the best amateur gridiron sloven in Western Pennsylvania. The Olympics and Bradley Eagles are eliminated teams around the Pittsburgh district and I wish them to stay away from the Connellsville Tornadoes if they do not want to get the surprise of their lives."

WOMAN HUNTER KILLS DEER

Brings Down Large Buck at Her First Shot.

Mrs. G. E. Davis of Albany, Ore., attained a distinction recently which few men, say nothing of women, can enjoy, in that she killed a deer with the first shot she ever fired at one.

Probably few, if any, women have killed a deer thus far in the open season in Oregon.

Mrs. Davis killed a 170-pound buck while hunting with her husband and other Albany men in Douglas county about forty miles from Roseburg. She was on a stand on the side of a canyon and saw the deer on the other side of the canyon about 200 yards away. She says she was not nervous but aimed deliberately and shot the animal through the heart.

Something impossible. Reggie—Doubtless I shall marry, I'm now, but I shall take jolly good care not to marry a woman who knows more than I do.

Freaks at Little Rock.

Little Rock claims the tallest, shortest, youngest and oldest players in the Southern league. The tallest is Dickerman, a recent pitcher, the shortest is Dempsey, the youngest Jackson and the oldest none other than Grover Land, who has, by the way, quit the club because of injuries and gone to Arizona to rest up.

LATIN TRANSLATION OF YANKS' DOWNFALL

In Famous First Inning of Game "Baneroftus Ambulavit."

Dean Flickinger of Northwestern University says, "Pippitus ter Ventilavit" and calls Babe Ruth "Ruthius."

Dean Roy C. Flickinger of the college of liberal arts of Northwestern is a baseball fan, and hence when one of his Little students remarked to the dean that in the first inning of the last game between the Gants and Yanks, "Baneroftus ambulavit" (Bancroft walked), Dean Flickinger hurried into his private office and took pencil in hand. With the last report of the famous first inning before him the dean wrote out the following:

"In eis prima Gigantum Burnulum plam ferentes Pistor luctu praevenit. Baneroftus ambulavit. Plam a Frisco in obliquum pulsatum excepto Pippus. Iungius ambulavit. Boltus arbitri indicio de pita quarta strenue interpellavit. Baneroftus de pita resiliens, et Iungius cum Peckius Keili resiliens, plam per manus dimisit, ad tertiam metum proparavit. Ad metam primam Holtus Meuseulum luctu praevenit. Oursus unus; nullus tauri; unus error."

This being translated reads as follows:

"Gants—Baker threw out Burns. Bancroft walked. French bunted out to Pipp. Young walked. Hoyt kicked vigorously on the umpire's decision on the fourth ball. Bancroft scored, and Young went to third when Peck let Kelly's grounder got through him. Hoyt threw out Meisel at first. One run; no hits; one error.

In a further Latin treatment of the Yanks' inning, the dean called Babe Ruth "Ruthius," and translated the simple and effective, "Pipp fanned" into "Pippitus ter ventilavit."

Comment by the Latin student: "It doesn't have the punch, does it? I'll except that one word, 'carries,' and suggest that when applied to the Yanks we substitute an 'e' for the 'u.'"

Dean Flickinger wouldn't say that he agreed.

Joe Nutter of Falls City, Neb., has been elected captain of the Brown University band. Nutter is a "varsity half miler."

Coach Ted Jones of The Yale eleven, in addressing a mass meeting of undergraduates, said: "Walking never makes football teams."

In the old days of football weight was mighty important. Not so much so in the present day of higher efficiency and the spending-up process.

Sport writers throughout the country are endorsing the recommendation of Judge Lands that the world series of the future be cut to seven games.

Charley Frank will continue as "manager" of the Atlanta team next season and possibly may take a more active part in handling the team's play.

On a mission to restore the fighting prestige of the Irish, Jack McNamee, the old lightweight king, is about to sail for the British Isles to look for boxers.

Something impossible. Reggie—Doubtless I shall marry, I'm now, but I shall take jolly good care not to marry a woman who knows more than I do.

Mrs. Bright—It seems to me I'm very practical.

Miss Bright—Not at all. You have your mind fixed upon an impossible ideal.

Pirates Best Liked

Figures by Barney Dreyfuss show the Pirates on the road were best liked as an attraction in New York and Cincinnati. They drew 200,000 in Gotham and 113,000 in Cincinnati. Of course the "oranges" series in New York helped a lot. In St. Louis the Pirates were not much thought of. They drew only 60,000 there, which wasn't much better than they did in Philadelphia. Giants and Reds were the best drawing teams in Pittsburgh.

BULLFIGHTING FAILS TO PLEASE PUGILIST

Not Sport, Says Charlie White, Chicago Boxer.

Spain's National Pastime, as Staged by Mexican at Juarez, Just Across Rio Grand, Has Nothing Effect on Fighter.

Spain's national sport, bullfighting, receives no boost from Charlie White, lightweight boxer, who still insists that he is Benny Leonard's rival. White recently fought in El Paso, Tex. While there the Mexican boxer was taken across the Rio Grande into Juarez, Mexico, where he saw the ancient pastime of Spain staged in the dilapidated bull ring by Mexicans who aspire to equal the Spanish in the art of skillfully tantalizing the bull and that of putting him to his death.

"Of all the sports I have ever seen that is the most brutal," said White. "There is not an element of sport in it. The poor bull has no chance in the world with 20 or more men surrounding him and striking him with picadores. Art Wilcox, my trainer, and I saw a matador wounded and carried out of the ring, and we also saw horses badly torn by the mad rushes of the bull. To us the event was sickening. Yet the Mexicans enthused, cheered and threw their hats into the ring when the matador succeeded in bringing down the bull.

"Boxing is mild compared to that brutal form of sport. Yet there are many who are striving to have our game prohibited. I certainly would much rather be a boxer than a matador. His work is art, I presume, but I prefer mine."

Bill Marriott, released by the Chicago Club to lead in the Buck Miller dash, won't be a stranger with the Oaks. He had a trial with the club about three years ago as a catcher.

More Ivory Heads.

Heads are getting harder. Hands are growing bigger.

That's the inside story on boxing, judging from the cracked hands now done up in bandages.

Benny Leonard busted his thumb on a sparring partner's dome.

Willie Jackson popped his hand on his playmate's cheek.

These might be called bone-headed plays.

Coach Wilcox of Ohio.

Except in Important Games Coaches Do Not Uncover Real Stuff—Experts Gain Nothing.

Part of the big structure of the operation of college football games is a scouting system. No college plays a football game unless two or three experts, representing an opponent of the future, are on the ground watching every detail of play and tactics.

"And what do they see?" asks a player of the day when they did not have such faith in what the scout could bring back. "Except in the very important games the coaches do not uncover their real stuff."

"And seeing how the scouts' teams play when the test comes, it seems that it would not make much difference whether the scout was in the observation tower or not."

MANAGER COFFEY TO RETIRE

Leader of Des Moines Team Will Not Return to Game—Had Poor Season All Around.

Jack Coffey, manager of the Des Moines team and veteran of the Western League, has let it be known that he will not return to the game next season. Des Moines had a bad year all around.

The row with the street railway system that stopped transportation for several weeks hurt attendance and the team on the field did not play winning ball. Coffey has been in the Western League since 1911, barring one year he played with San Francisco. He graduated from Ferdinand university in 1908 and had a trial with the Boston Nationals, then went to Indianapolis for a season, after which he joined the Denver team in the Western League.

A Man and His Clothes

By Wright-Metzler Co.

If clothes do not make the man, they at least help make his appearance—and in this day it is very little that is judged by appearance. We hear a great deal about "first impressions." Many people insist that the "first impression" sticks to them like glue to the exclusion of any ensuing impressions or events. If this is true surely everyone ought to think seriously of his appearance and the impressions that appearance may make.

To a great extent the words "Clothes" and "Appearance" have become synonymous.

Neat, brushed, pressed clothing makes a man good to look at just as well-kept, hair and straight-hanging sides contribute to a woman's appearance. The consciousness of being well dressed gives a man self-confidence and courage. We have all heard of a man that he wears his clothes well." What does this mean?" In nine cases out of ten it simply means that he wears good clothes—not necessarily expensive clothes, but reliable, well fitting, wrinkle-free clothes bought of a dealer whose integrity would not allow him to sell part-wood for wool, or a carelessly put-together suit for a well-tailored garment.

Time was when a man who took pride in his clothing was characterized as a "dude," but nowadays he who is fastidious and buys any suit which an unscrupulous merchant—with the thought of profit submerging his brain—pairs off a considered and careful, happy-go-lucky fellow who is very apt to carry this same disposition into his business dealings. For nearly everyone is beginning to know a man by his clothes!

At the TheatresTHE SOISSON.

"BOB HAMPTON OF PLACER," the feature picture today, is a First National attraction, with James Kirkwood, Wesley Barry and Marjorie Daw in the leading roles. Bob Hampton, portrayed by Mr. Kirkwood, is an outcast from the army—an ex-officer. He becomes a gambler, also foster father to Dick, a little wulf. Miss Daw, as the kid, was the leading feminine part Monday and Tuesday "The Scoffer," with Mary Thurman in the stellar role, will be shown.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"KINI FISHER'S ROOST," a thrilling and crashing phenomenal tale of the northwest mounted police, is the feature picture today. A part of the real Mexican army as well as the real Mexican towns and scenic backgrounds supply this colorful atmosphere for the pictures, which was filmed at Tecate, Mexico, and in the hills thereabouts. Monday and Tuesday, "A Wife's Awakening" will be shown.

THE ORPHEUM.

"TO PLEASE ONE WOMAN," a Paramount picture, is the leading picture today. The story relates the havoc wrought by beautiful selfish woman with the power to charm men. Faith and true love finally bring happiness out of the mess. Maud Lisa, Cloris Windsor and Edward Burns play the leading roles. The production is replete with thrilling action as well as kindly scenes of small town life.

THE ORPHEUM.

"THE FOUR HORSEMEN OF THE APOCALYPSE," the $1,000,000 Fox Ingram production which has been the screen sensation of New York, Boston, Chicago, Los Angeles and other large cities, will be presented Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at this theatre. Probably the strongest and most distinguished cast ever assembled for any picture in the history of the screen, is seen in this picture. While every player of the 25 principal roles was selected because of his or her special ability to enact the part, there is scarcely a name in the list that is not prominently known to motion picture followers.

Rudolph Valentino, who has the role of Julio, the romantic South American hero of the story, has been in pictures for several years. Previous to going into pictures, Mr. Valentino was a professional dancer. Alice Terry is enacting the leading female role, that of Marguerite, the little French girl. Miss Terry played in the Metro production of "Shore Acres," featuring Alice Lake, and later had the leading role in "Hearts Are Trumps." Joseph Swickard, a veteran of 25 years on the American speaking stage and 10 years in motion pictures, appears in the part of Madame Desnoyers. Edward Connelly, best known of veteran Metro character actors, has the difficult role of the old gatekeeper. Mr. Connelly, after a stage career of 30 years, has appeared in many character roles in Metro successes. Marcel Van Butan has the part of Elena, a German character role.

THE ARCADE.

"THE PACE-MAKERS," a musical satire in two scenes, comes highly recommended to the Arcade theatre and no doubt will please the patrons of the popular playhouse. Some of the features of the show include the ever versatile Bob Sullin, who has not visited Connellsville in a number of seasons, but will probably be remembered by some as one of the funniest comedians ever seen here, having played here in the "All Girl Revue." He is sure to make the most of his part, and have the audience in an uproar during the entire show. Another added feature is a boxing match between two youngsters. This is going to be a real treat. The musical numbers of the show are exceptionally good, and the chorus is gowned in the latest creations. The Arcade Melody Five, under the capable direction of Stuart Atwood, formerly pianist at Keith's, Trenton, N. J., is creating a very favorable impression here. In addition to the Pace-Makers, the usual picture program will be shown.

Be as carefree as ever,
as fat and as jolly,

And you'll never imagine—try as you will,

At the things that he's brought you,

my children, until—

Your dad or your "mums" brings you down to the store,

Where Santa has left you toy treasures galore,

There are tracks with real trains and puzzles and books

And the tiniest stoves for the tiniest cooks,

There are pirates and soldiers and jumping jacks jolly

Why the place is so full of such merriment

That the kiddies (and toys) are as happy as kings!

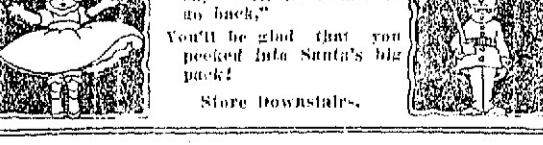

So we thought that we'd tell you (it's only begun)

To come in some day for your share of the fun,

For when "mums" has to say "Well we'll have to go back."

British Delegates Will Insist on Reduction of Size of Underseas Navies and Taken at Home That Conference Will Otherwise Partially Fail.

PERTS STILL AT WORK

Slewed That Both British and Japanese Committees Will Shortly Be Ready to Submit Counter Proposals on the Hughes Armament Plan.

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—So much progress has been made in the naval parts examining details of the armament reduction plan that some of the arms delegates expect another assembly session may be held in the future to permit Japan and Great Britain to submit their counter proposals in concrete form.

The American and British experts are said to have virtually completed an examination of the technical parts involved in Secretary Hughes' proposal. The Japanese experts were in considering the figures and facts involved.

The British were said to feel that satisfactory progress had been made but their spokesman would not disclose the terms beyond stating that was certain the submarine question would be one of the chief points involved in any agreement. There is no better in Great Britain it was said that the conference will not be unequalled success unless some time is taken to curb the size and type of future "underseas navies" similar to the steps proposed as to surface fleets.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—The compensated saving of several hundred millions of dollars through the elimination of armament will result in repeated raids on the United States treasury with freak legislation said Representative Fess, chairman of the publican Congressional committee. A statement today "Congress will be to alertly on its guard to fall in its incipiency freak legislation aimed at the funds saved by administration's disarmament plan," he said. "From everywhere we come demands for a slice of the pie to be saved, which will not be the federal government but only our present expenditures."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—With the conference negotiations proceeding in an atmosphere of friendliness both delegations believed insurance premium and accomplishments increased importance attached to its outcome to the result of the informally expressed hope of President Harding that the concave might lay the foundation for a continuing series of conferences with the aim of perpetuating closer international accord. The committee's plan which has been offered only as a personal suggestion to one of the foreign delegates who were generally approved it was an outstanding topic of discussion in entrance circles as the delegations arrived today for another committee meeting to take formal action on their final decision yesterday for gradual attainment of some territorial rights China.

TYRIN, Italy, Nov. 26.—Antirem demonstrations which were instigated last night followed newspaper accounts alleging harsh words are used by Premier Brindisi or his aide Senator Solaner, head of the Italian delegation at Washington, are continued here today with such intensity that 300 troops had to be called in to restore order.

BANDITS GET $88,000 IN TWO BOLD HOLD-UPS

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 26.—Four armed bandits entered the office of the St. Louis Refining company in the heart of the business district today and escaped with diamonds and jewelry said to be valued at $60,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Four armed bandits held up an automobile from the First National bank of Boston here today and stole payroll funds. They escaped in an automobile with a New York registration number. One of the bandits is believed to have been wounded by a shot fired by a bank messenger. The holdup took place in front of the A. C. Walton & company shoe factory. A score of shots were exchanged.

The bank automobile carrying the payroll for the factory had stopped outside the company offices and as the two passengers stepped from the machine they were fired upon by three of the bandits. One of the latter seized the money bag and fled in their automobile. The others followed, shooting as they went.

A messenger who had remained in the car opened fire on the robbers. While the exchange of shots was in progress the bandits disappeared.

Officials of the shoe company said the bag contained $28,141.
